FOREWORD

This Voter Education Handbook is a major tool in the Electoral Commission's effort to promote Voter Education through sensitization of citizens about their rights, duties and enhancing their participation in the electoral process. It covers key aspects in the electoral cycle and provides basic election information to Voters, Candidates, Political Parties, Agents, field Election Officials, Observers, Monitors, Civil Society and other Stakeholders. It is also a guide to the conduct of electoral activities.

Voter education is necessary for democracy to thrive. It helps equip citizens with the information necessary, for engaging meaningfully with stakeholders in the electoral process. The outcome of voter education is enhanced citizen participation and growth of a democratic culture. This ensures that citizens appreciate and respect individual or group choices in all electoral undertakings.

The Electoral Commission is committed to its Constitutional Mandate of Organising, Conducting, and Supervising regular, free and fair elections and referenda, embedded in its mission "To efficiently Organize, Conduct and Supervise Regular Free, Fair and Transparent Elections and Referenda to Enhance Democracy and Good Governance." Therefore, I encourage all stakeholders to utilise this resource in order to participate actively and make informed choices during elections and referenda. It is important to note that the core of any democratic society is the ability to conduct free, fair and transparent elections.

INTRODUCTION

The Electoral Commission's mandate to conduct "regular free and fair elections and referenda" can be realised if all stakeholders are committed, honest and transparent in the conduct of electoral activities. Voters are expected to act in accordance with the established laws and electoral guidelines without undue influence and to respect the opinions and choices of others.

The Electoral Commission is mandated by Article 61, paragraph (g) of the 1995 Constitution of the Republic of Uganda to "formulate and implement Voter educational programmes relating to elections". This ensures that citizens understand their rights and responsibilities regarding elections.

Voter Education involves providing information on the electoral process that includes demarcation of electoral areas, re-organisation of polling stations and administrative units, registration of voters, update of voters register, display of the register, nomination of candidates, campaigns and the polling process. Civic education on the other hand supplements voter education by providing a wider understanding of citizenship and democracy.

The Voter Education Handbook has been designed to assist voters, Election Officials and other stakeholders to understand the electoral process, enhance voters' awareness and increase participation in the electoral process in order to promote good governance. The intended outcome of this effort is to ensure that voters are ready, willing and able to participate in the electoral process.

CHAPTER 1

REPRESENTATION OF THE PEOPLE

1.0 Introduction

The Constitution of the Republic of Uganda, 1995 provides that all power belongs to the people who shall exercise their sovereignty in accordance with the Constitution; and that the people shall express their will and consent on who shall govern them and how they should be governed through regular, free and fair elections of their representatives or through referenda.

It is not easy, however, for the people to make individual decisions on all issues that concern them. The people must therefore, elect representatives who make these decisions on their behalf. It is important that the citizens should be knowledgeable about what that representation does for them.

When people participate effectively in decisions that affect them, directly or indirectly through their representatives, then democracy prevails.

1.1 Objectives:

By the end of this chapter the reader should be able to:

- a) List the various levels of representation;
- b) Name the representatives at various levels;
- c) Explain the mode of election for each level;
- d) List the duties of the representatives at different levels;
- e) State the challenges in the process of representation;
- f) Suggest ways of overcoming challenges of representation.

1.2 Category of Representation and Mode of Elections

In a descending order, representation begins at the national level, constituency level and local council levels which include: District, Municipality, City Division, Municipal Division/ Town /Sub-county, Parish/Ward and Village/Zone/Cell councils.

Representation of people at various levels is through Political Parties, although people are free to present their candidature for leadership as independents.

CHAPTER 2

DEMARCATON OF ELECTORAL AREAS

2.0 Introduction

Demarcation of Electoral Areas for representation at Local Governments is done in accordance with Article 181 of the 1995 Constitution of the Republic of Uganda and the Local Governments Act, Cap 243, sections 108, 109 and 110. Demarcation is creation of electoral boundaries.

2.1 Objectives

The purpose of this chapter is to enable readers to:

- i) Explain the necessity to demarcate;
- ii) Describe the procedure for demarcation;
- iii) List the principles of demarcation;
- iv) Explain the framework for demarcation.

The necessity for demarcation of electoral areas arises out of the following:

a) Constituency

A constituency is an area prescribed by Parliament and demarcated by the Electoral Commission for representation by a Member of Parliament through elections.

A Parliamentary constituency is formed by the following;

- i) Each county has to be represented by a member of parliament;
- ii) The law defines a population quota to be represented by a member of parliament considering; communication, geographical features, density of the population, area and boundaries of districts.

b) Local Government Councils

Local Government councils are created as follows;

- i) The creation of districts whose councils have to be formed for the first time;
- ii) Creation of sub counties/towns whose councils have to be formed for the first time and also affecting representation at District level;
- iii) Creation of parishes/wards affecting representation at Sub county/Town/Municipal Division level.

2.2 Phase One of Demarcation of Electoral Areas

An electoral area (EA) means one of the areas into which a District, City, Town, Division, Sub county or parish is divided for the purpose of election or representation.

Demarcation work is carried out in two phases:

The first phase is aimed at determining the size of the councils i.e. number of councillors, which determine the number of the electoral areas required for each category of representation.

The second phase is the actual merging and/or splitting of basic administrative units in the districts for formation of electoral areas for election of representatives.

2.2.1 Procedure for Demarcation of Electoral Areas for Representation at Local Government Councils

There is a procedure followed in demarcation of electoral areas at Local Government Councils, as described in the steps below:

2.2.2 Steps followed for demarcation of Local Government Electoral Areas for Directly Elected Councillors are as follows:

- Step I: Consider the basic administrative unit for representation as provided for under Section 109 of the Local Governments Act, Cap. 243.
- Step II: Consider the total population of the relevant basic administrative unit in step I above and compare with the population quota as provided for under section 108 (1) of the Local Governments Act, Cap. 243. This will determine the number of electoral areas to be demarcated out of the basic administrative unit.
- Step III: Consider the provision that the total number of councillors for a Local Government Council shall not be less than ten as provided for under section 108(4) of the Local Governments Act, Cap. 243.
- Step IV: Consider Electoral Areas that may be created after taking into account means of communication, geographical features and density of population.

Note: Local Government electoral areas are demarcated in such a manner, that the number of inhabitants in each electoral area should be approximately equal to the population quota.

2.2.3 Steps followed for demarcation of Electoral Areas for Women Councillors forming one third of Local Government Councils, are explained in table 2

|-----------|---|-----|---|--|
| Step I:   | Establish the composition of the two thirds (<math>\frac{2}{3}</math>) of the total Council in order to derive the one third of the women quota (WQ) i.e. (<math>\frac{1}{3}</math> of the Council). This is derived from the following formula: <math>WQ = \text{Directly Elected Councillors} + \text{Councillors representing the Youth} + \text{Councillors representing persons with disabilities} = \frac{2}{3} \text{ of the Council.}</math>           Women quota means the number of seats specifically reserved for women in a council. |     |   |  |
| Step II:  | Derive the number of Women Councillors, which will form one third of the Council and therefore the number of electoral areas for representation at the respective Council as follows:  |     |   |  |
|           | Let:  | DEC | = | Number of electoral areas for Directly Elected Councillors;                            |
|           |   | Y   | = | Councillors representing Youth to the respective Local Government;                     |
|           |   | PWD | = | Councillors representing Persons With Disabilities to the respective Local Government; |
|           | Then, the number of Women Councillors forming one third (<math>\frac{1}{3}</math>) of the council <math>WC = \frac{DEC+Y+PWD}{2}</math>   |     |   |  |
|           | For each Local Government Council, there are 2 Councillors representing the Youth and 2 representing Persons With Disabilities as provided for under Sections 11 (c), (d) and 24(c), (d) of the Local Governments Act, Cap 243. Therefore, at all Local Government Councils, Y=2 and PWD= 2           The number of Women Councillors forming one third of the Council is derived from the formula below; <math>WC = \frac{DEC + 4}{2}</math> (Since, <math>DEC+Y+PWD = \frac{2}{3} \text{ of the Council}</math>).                                |     |   |  |
| Step III: | Compare the total number of basic administrative units for representation with the number of seats for women councillors.  |     |   |  |

Note:

- If the number of women councillors is equal to the number of basic administrative units, then each basic administrative unit will be represented by one Woman councillor;
- If the number of women councillors is less than the number of basic administrative units, it implies that some administrative units shall be combined to form electoral areas, proceed to steps IV.

- iii) If the number of women councillors is greater than the number of administrative units, it implies that some basic administrative units shall be split to form electoral areas. Therefore, ensure that each basic administrative unit is represented and proceed to step IV.

Step IV:

Derive the Population Quota to be used for demarcation for the relevant Local Government, which shall be;

PQ = Total Population (Official recent census figures) of Local Government

Unit

WC = Number of Electoral Areas to be represented by women

Step V:

Use the total populations (official recent census figures) of the basic administrative units for representation and the Population quota derived in step IV to demarcate electoral areas taking proximity into consideration. The following three scenarios may be achieved:

- i) A basic administrative unit forming an electoral area for representation;
- ii) Combining two or more basic administrative units to form one electoral area for women representation;
- iii) Splitting one basic administrative unit into two or more electoral areas for representation.

Note:

For avoidance of doubt, directly elected women councillors do not affect the computation for the women quota.

2.2.4 Framework for Demarcation of Electoral areas for Directly Elected Councillors for Local Governments

The Local Governments Act Section 108(1) and Section 109, Cap. 243 provides for population quotas and basic administrative units respectively. These serve for both Directly Elected and Women Councillors, forming one third of Councils. This is illustrated in the table below:

Table 3: Basic Administrative Units of Representation and Population quotas for various Local Governments

| NO. | LOCAL GOVERNMENT           | BASIC ADMINISTRATIVE UNIT FOR REPRESENTATION | POPULATION QUOTA |
|-----|----------------------------|--|------------------|
| 1.  | District                   | Sub county/Town/Municipal Division           | 30,000           |
| 2.  | City                       | City Division                                | 50,000           |
| 3.  | Municipality/City Division | Parish/Ward                                  | 6,000            |
| 4.  | Sub county                 | Parish                                       | 10,000           |
| 5.  | Town/Municipal Division    | Parish/Ward                                  | 3,000            |

- i) Any administrative unit has to be represented at the relevant council. Each council shall have 2 Youth and 2 PWDs representatives, in addition to the directly elected and women councillors whose numbers vary from council to council.
- ii) An administrative unit can have two or more representatives if its population increases in multiples of the stipulated population quota.
- iii) The Electoral Commission may reduce the population quota if using that quota, the total number of councillors is less than 10.

2.3 Phase Two of Demarcation of Electoral Areas

Work in this phase is done in the field by the Returning Officers and District Registrars assisted by Sub county and Parish Supervisors.

The steps followed are explained in table 4

|---------|---|--|
| Step1:  | Study the relevant documents carefully and understand them.   |  |
|         | Establish the composition of the various Local Government councils in the district.   |  |
|         | Establish whether the composition of the councils for the forthcoming General Elections, is different from that of the existing councils. If the composition has changed, establish the reasons for the change. |  |
| Step 2: | a.   | District/City councils (Basic unit for representation is the Sub County/Town/Municipal Division).Consider Electoral Areas for Directly Elected and Women Councillors forming one third of councils. If the number of Sub counties/Towns/Municipal Divisions is greater than the number of women councillors to be elected, look out for Sub Counties/Towns/Municipal Divisions to be combined and combine appropriately. The basic administrative units with smaller population figures should be combined if proximity and geographical features allow. If the number of Sub counties/Towns/Municipal Divisions is less than the number of Women Councillors to be elected, look out for Sub counties/Towns/ Divisions to be subdivided into electoral areas and subdivide listing the names of parishes in each electoral area on the relevant form. If the number of Sub Counties/Towns/Municipal Divisions is less than the number of Directly Elected Councillors to be elected, look out for Sub counties/Towns/ Divisions to be subdivided into electoral areas and subdivide listing the names of parishes in each electoral area on the relevant form. |

|--|----|---|
|  | b. | Municipality Councils (basic unit for representation is the Parish/Ward). Consider Electoral Areas for Directly Elected and Women Councillors forming one third of the relevant council. If the number of Parishes/Wards is greater than the number of women councillors to be elected, look out for Parishes/Wards to be combined and combine appropriately. ## CHAPTER 3

RE-ORGANISATION OF POLLING STATIONS

3.0 Introduction

It is the mandate of the Electoral Commission under Section 12 (1) (d) of the Electoral Commission Act, (Cap 140), to establish and operate Polling Stations. In preparation for General Elections, the Commission conducts re-organization of Polling Stations country-wide; to enable voters to conveniently cast their votes. Re-organization of polling stations therefore is the placing of voters in the right polling stations and putting polling stations in the right locations.

3.1 Objectives

The purpose of this chapter is to enable readers to:

- i) State the purpose of re-organisation;
- ii) Describe the procedure of re-organisation;
- iii) Identify officials involved in re-organisation;
- iv) Outline the duties of officials involved in the re-organisation exercise.

3.2 Purpose of Re-organisation

Re-organization of polling stations serves to:

- i) Allocate each parish/ward or electoral area at least one polling station;
- ii) Merge Polling Stations that have far less than the optimum number of voters as determined by the Electoral Commission;
- iii) Split polling stations with significantly more than the optimum number of voters into two or more polling stations;
- iv) Rationalise polling stations which had earlier been split on the basis of the alphabet;
- v) Re-locate polling stations on the basis of voter accessibility and management;
- vi) Re-name polling stations according to their physical locations;
- vii) Harmonise parish and village names with the corresponding polling stations.

3.2.1 Creation/Allocation of new Polling Stations

By law each Electoral Area or parish must have at least one Polling Station.

Polling stations are established in newly created parishes in order for each of them to have at least one.

There is a need for at least one Polling Station for each Electoral Area for the Election of Directly Elected Councillors and/or Women Councilors.

Newly created polling stations should have clear and appropriate names depicting the location of the polling stations.

3.2.2 Merging of Polling Stations

This refers to the act of putting together two or more polling stations within the same parish, that may each have the number of voters less than the optimum number to form one large polling station which must have the number not exceeding the optimum.

The reason for merging polling stations is to bring together voters from smaller polling stations within the same Parish or Ward that are close to one another, to form one larger polling station provided the total number of voters does not exceed 900 (or 1200 voters in the case of Kampala District and Wakiso). This is done putting into consideration the distance voters have to travel to vote on polling day, which should not be long.

Note: The maximum accepted number of voters (i.e. 800 or 1,200 for Kampala) for ease of administering polling activities at the polling station is referred to as the optimum number of voters.

3.2.3 Splitting of Polling Stations

Splitting of polling stations refers to the division of one polling station into two or more polling stations because either its number of voters are more than the optimum number; or the village has a new one created out of it; or villages are mixed up and hence the division according to village of residence and proximity to polling station.

In this case more but smaller polling stations are got considering the convenience of the distances to be travelled by the voters.

3.2.4 Rationalization

Rationalization is the process of reorganizing polling stations according to villages or cells such that names of residents of the same village or cell appear on the same register. Furthermore, it becomes possible to move or relocate the polling station to one of the villages or cells whose voters identify with it. It is advisable to rename such polling stations according to villages/cells where they are located or moved to. Consequently rationalization helps voters to easily locate their polling stations.

Sometimes polling centres (i.e places where two or more polling stations are located) such as school compounds or playgrounds may have registers for each of the polling stations comprising names of voters from different villages existing in the Parish or Ward mixed. This leads to confusion on polling day which is solved through rationalization.

3.2.5 Relocation

This is the changing of the location of a polling station.
Relocation may be necessitated by the following factors:

- i) Location in contestable areas e.g. bars, private premises such as in compounds or residences;
- ii) Natural disasters;
- iii) Dissolution of IDP camps;
- iv) Lack of adequate space for polling activities;
- v) Long distances travelled by voters to access polling stations;
- vi) Where developments have taken place e.g. buildings, roads, industries, factories and places that are no longer public.

3.2.6 Re-naming

This refers to giving a polling station another name to replace its former one. Re-naming of polling stations is done to reflect the new physical location of a relocated polling station or to correct a name which was not portraying the proper location. The new name of the polling station should be familiar to the voters.

3.2.7 Harmonisation of parishes, villages and polling stations in the register

This is the aligning of correct villages to the voters on the National Voters' Register to ensure that they belong to the right Parishes and are allocated polling stations on the basis of residence as per the list of the villages provided by the Electoral Commission. Harmonization is intended to specify villages forming polling stations to appear in their rightful parishes.

3.3 Procedure for Re-organisation

Re-organization of polling stations involves the following steps:

- i) Identification by the District Returning Officer of new parishes/wards and electoral areas without any polling stations;

8.6.7 Electronic Results Transmission and Dissemination System (ERTDS)

The results are received by the RO and scanned into the district server computer. Thereafter 2 tally clerks capture the results manually into 2 different computers connected to the server. The server will compare and show errors in case one of the clerks enters something different and thereafter it has to be corrected.

The RO will approve results on the server indicating that what has been entered is matching with what was scanned.

After approval the results are printed, displayed to the agents and transmitted to the National Tally Centre.

8.6.2 Declaration of Results

The Presidential Elections Act 16 of 2005, section 57(1) provides that, “The Commission shall ascertain, publish and declare in writing under its seal the election results of the Presidential election within forty-eight (48) hours from the close of the polling”.

The candidate shall not be declared elected as a President unless the number of votes cast in favour of that candidate at the presidential elections is more than fifty percent(50%) of the valid votes cast at the election (Presidential Elections Act, section 57(4)).
